

The plot shows that some familiar words like enjoyable and annoying are very close to each other. However, they are in the opposite meaning. It might happen because of the dimension reduction and the dataset that we used. Furthermore, the vector distance between male and female is approximately equal to the vector distance between king and queen.